DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Beale (0890836). Beale discloses a golf club head with a plurality of elastic wire rods arranged in parallel relation along an inner surface of a face plate, said elastic wire rods being extended in contact with the inner surface of said face plate or with a small space formed between the inner surface of said face plate and said elastic wire rods, opposite ends of said elastic wire rods being fixed to a peripheral part of said face plate (fig 10, 2:64-65, 2:94). In as much structure set forth by the applicant in the claims, the device is capable of use in the intended manner if so desired (See MPEP 2112).

As to claim 2 : Beale discloses a fixedly adhered wire (1:99-100).

As to claim 3 : Beale discloses a metal wire (1:12-18).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tsutae (JP2002-320692) in view of Kenmi. Tsutae discloses the elements of claim 1, however it fails to clearly disclose the use of parallel reinforcement means. Kenmi discloses the use of parallel reinforcement means. The specification provides no unanticipated or surprising results from using parallel reinforcement means. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have employed the orientation of the reinforcement means used in the Kenmi with the apparatus of Tsutae based on design, cost and marketing considerations.

As to claim 2 : Tsutae discloses a fixedly adhered wire (The following translation of the IDS document was obtained from the JP website (<http://www.ipdl.ncipi.go.jp/homepg.ipdl>)).

E/Pa. The alloy of tin, copper and tin, and iron etc. is mentioned to this tin alloy. Tin has the advantage from which a good adhesive property is acquired, when making it unite with the face side of titanium so that it may mention later, since it has the property excellent in the adhesive property with other metals.

[0008] The reinforcing materials consider as * of several articles extended from the

As to claim 3 : Tsutae discloses a metal wire (The following translation was obtained from the JP website (<http://www.ipdl.ncipi.go.jp/homepg.ipdl>)).

[Claim 2] The golf club according to claim 1 which used the material of a reinforcement wire object as tin or its alloy.
